"JERSEY VISES"

Are new to the majority of hardware dealers, hence we give a concise description and a few points as to their superiority.

The "Jersey Vise" is strong, heavy and substantial, the manufacturer's principle being, not to see how little metal they could use and call it a vise, but the required amount of metal and labor needed to obtain a good, solid, amateur vise at a moderate price.

The "Jersey Vise" has new features in its working parts, hardened steel faced jaws, a solid steel screw with a square lathe cut thread (collar head and body of screw being turned in one piece from cold rolled stock), the sliding jaw is filed to a fit with the back jaw, the faces of the jaws are ground with great care, so that they meet squarely when tightened.

The "Jersey Vise" has a good finish, the body with brown baking japan, while the working parts are highly polished.

The packing of "Jersey Vises" is a valuable feature that should be appreciated by the hardware dealers, as the regular brown line is wrapped with two sheets of damp proof paper and tied with a string. The jeweler's and toolmaker's vises only are packed one each in a box. Thus the vises will always open out fresh and clean because of the extra care used in wrapping.

The "Jersey Vise" display stand is new and novel and revolves like a ferris wheel. The stand is a great salesman of "Jersey Vises" and every hardware dealer should have one with an assortment of "Jersey Vises".

We thank the trade for the very able manner in which they have placed "Jersey Vises" on the market and wish to express our appreciation for the same.

Vineland, New Jersey.

Vineland is a 40 year old town in the southern part of New Jersey. The borough being a mile square with the streets intersecting at right angles and the railroad extending through the centre of the town makes all parts equally easy of access. The train service is exceedingly good, trains passing each way, to and from Philadelphia and the sea shore, every hour.

The streets are wide and well kept, which, with the sidewalks shaded by a double row of trees in the residential part of the town, gives the place an unusually cool and clean aspect.

The schools, churches and library are of the best. The business section of the town extends for a short distance on either side of the railroad.

The climate is very temperate, with moderate winters and delightful summers, the heat being greatly diminished by the ocean breezes.
